We need YOUR support to keep our programs strong

The Wellness Warriors is a dragon boat paddling team for cancer survivors in the Greater Boston metropolitan area. We are a diverse group of men and women of all ages. Some of us have completed active treatment but are still struggling with the cancer experience while others still are in the midst of receiving chemotherapy, radiation or other cancer-fighting strategies. Wherever we are in our path after cancer diagnosis, we see that exercise reduces pain and increases quality of life. Our paddling support group helps build our inner and physical strength.

Our tenacity, love of dragon boating, and deep care for each other creates a unique team of cancer survivors. Our experience of pushing our bodies, regaining confidence in our physical ability, and learning new paddling skills is transformative. Paddling together, we are not just surviving after cancer, we are thriving. By competing against other cancer survivor teams in dragon boat races the Wellness Warriors is a beacon of hope for others touched by cancer.

Wellness Warriors is featured in a video as part of the Wellness Guide for Cancer Survivors, a publication from the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. To get a taste of what our program is like watch "Paddling with a Purpose: Wellness Warriors" at https://youtu.be/glouisOal_g
